HONGROND, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1892. THE brief telegram which we publish to-day, 'Lord Tennyson is dead,' announces a loss to Great Britain and the world which will be widely felt. In the nature of things, the event could not have been regarded as one that was likely to be fer off, but its arrival nevertheless awakens a feeling of sadness and a consciousness that the world has been made poorer by the removal of a min to whom a vast number of his fellows lacked up with reversuce and admiraexemplified much of what is noble in human nature, and who by his work in Canton Insurance Office, Ltd. at Messra | the high vocation of Poet, using with

It has not been left, to posterity ister Rev. G. H Bondfield.—Services at to discover his merits. It might almost be asserted with positiveness that there is no educated man or woman in Great Britain or in the Greater Britain beyond, or among the great multitude of our kith and kin in America, who has not felt in 7.30 A.M.; and on the 4th, at the Evening a greater or lesser degree the influence of Tennyson's poetry. More than sixty years ago, when a little volume appeared, bearing on the title-page Poems, chiefly Lyrical-by Alfred Tennyson,' John Stuart Mill, in the course of a criticism in the Westminster Review. wrote:- That these poems will have a very rapid and extensive popularity we do not anticipate. Their very originality will prevent their being generally appreciated for a time. But that time will come, we hope, for they demonstrate the possession of powers to the future direction of which we look with some anxiety.' This opinion as to the prospects of Tennyson's poems turned out to well-founded. Equally just was the estimate which the reviewer formed of the poet's character and of the poet's conception of his vocation :-- Mr Tennyson-knows that the poet's mind is hely ground, he knows that the poet's portion is to be "dowered with the liste of hate, the scorn of scorn, the love of love"; he has shown . . . the just conception of the grandeur of a poet's destiny; and we look to him for its fulfilment. It is not for such men to sink into mere versa-makers for the amusement of themselves or others. They can influence the association of unnumbered minds; they can command the sympathies of unnumbered hearts; they can disseminate their principles; they can give those principles power over good cause the sustained enthusiasm that is sure to conquer: they can blust the laurels of the tyrants and hallow the memories of the martyrs of patriotism; they can net with a force, the extent of which it is difficult to estimate, upon national feelings and character, and consequently upon national hapniness. If our estimate of Mr Tennyson be correct, he is indeed a poet of that description. There may be difference of opinion as to the rank which Tennyson is outified to take as a poet, but there can be none with regard to the faithfulness with which he followed his own high ideal of the post's mission and uttered the message which he believed he was entrusted to deliver. Of him it might be said that his task was fully accomplished before he was called away. He could contemplate the approach of death with serenity. His removal reminds us how brief a space in the closing years of the century has sufficed for the extinguishing of three of the brightest lights of literature-Carlyle, Browning, Tennyson. The world will not look for another Carlyle, an-

The outstanding advances at the Company's own mines and the loans to independent mines amounted on 21st August, to $31,281 exclusive of $4.091 written off as bad and doubtful debts during the half-year. These outstandings are larger than usual for the same reason as above stated, viz: that owing to scarcity of water, ore washing has been kept back and consequently many mines have been unable to reduce their debts by delivery of During this half-year the Company have for the first time undertaken to supply all provisions and necessaries to the minera which in the former period was done by Chinese contractor. This explains the item of $20,053 for stores in stock for sale to miners, and also the heavier expenses under the heading 'additions to property,' as the new arrangement necessituted the building of an iron godown and furnishing of a store at Jelebu and the purchase of land and erection of a transi godown and office at Seramban. Thi store business has thus far worked sutisfactorily and the profits are larger than the commission formerly returned to the Company by the contractor.

After paying all charges, making ful allowance for depreciation of houses, plant and writing off all losses and doubtful debts, there remains at the credit of Profi and Loss account the balance of $45,704. Out of this your Directors recommend pay ment of a dividend of 10 per cent. for the half-year being at the rate of 20 per cent per annum which would absorb $22,500,! that a sum of $15,000 be placed to reserve fund (which will then stand at $55,000), at that the balance of $8,204 then remaining be carried forward.

The entire revenue from tin mining du ing the balf-year has accrued from the working on the Chinese tribute system as there is now no doubt that this evete gives the best result of any tried by th Company. It is intended to extend th system as much as possible.

The working of the Australian miner whose arrival at the mines was mention in the last report, has so far not been success, and it has been necessary to wri off $6.826 as loss on this account. A TIGER AND BULL FIGHT. ATROCIOUS CRUELTY.

The Straits Times gives the following translation from a Batavia paper describing the scene at a ' tiger and bull fight,' a kind of 'aport' which, judging by the following account, seems for debasing and disgusting cruelty, to be quite unique. The Derformance, here described is certainly a diagrace to the (presumably) civilized Representative of a civilised Government under | Scale whose auspices it took place:-The Batavia Nieuwshald of the 23rd September gives particulars of an official tiger and buffalo fight that took place at Padang Paujang in the Residency of the West Coast of Sumatra early this month. The Assist ant Resident of the district had determined upon giving this performance to the people owing to the capture of a large tigress in that neighbourhood. The tigress had vainly been offered to the zoological gardens at Batavia and Amsterdam, and by the time Barometer of the fight had lost much of her fiercenesa. The people of the place got together stout bamboos to fence round the arens, a cir-78 cular piece of ground more than 30 feet broad, with galleries for spectators who were charged admission fees. A few weeks before the light the Assistant Resident secured a tiger, and the people provided two stout buffalces to measure themselves in the arena with it and the tiggess. On the day of battle crowds thronged the arena into which the tigress stepped at about 10 a.m. to meet a butfale. The latter quietly held its own against the tigress which, reduced by her long im. prisonment, showed no inclination for further attack. THE GRAND OLD MAN. In his capacity for, and habit of, throwng all his soul and body into whatever business he undertakes lies the secret of Mr Gladstone's commanding force and influence. Whatever he is doing or discussing at a particular moment is regarded though good in itself implies a lack of andignified, even ridiculous. In the House of Commons it has come to be a wellknown fact, happily less patent now than it was ten years ago, that any one, however insignificant, can 'draw Gladstone.' That's are several men, not all as eminent as Lord Randolph Churchill, who directly awe Itheir political advancement to this weakness on the part of a great man. At the present time there is a gentleman comfortably provided for as a judge at the Indian Mutiny, more about another mutiny. Antipodes, whose sole claim to recognition by the Government of the day was that when Mr Gladstone rose to address the House this otherwise inarticulate member used to shout 'Oh! oh!' or 'Ah! sh!' Such an interruption would not in the least have disconcerted Mr Disraeli when he occupied a similar position. He would have ignored it from the first, and the gentleman in question would never have to my native village and settled down. Two been a colonial judge. Mr Gladstone remains to this day what allured by by-paths of illustration or when it comes to lefty and sustained oratory Mr Gladstone is inapproachable. This is shown in half a dozen ways. One, peculiar and convincing, appears in connection with the daty which from time to time calls upon a leader of the House to lament the death of an eminent member. Mr Disraeli felt the difficulty of this situation so acutely that on a famous occasion he borrowed from a French statesman when he desired to pronounce a sulogy at | to go and see the doctor. Then I gave up the grave of an English Captaia. Mr dectoring in despair, for I had lest all faith in Bright when he rose to speak to the House of Commons of his dead friend Cobden was movingly elequent. A VEGETABLE OCTOPUS.

My only companion was a native who had lived all his life on this part of the island. During one of my botanising excursions I passed by the mouth of a narrow canon, or gorge, and, naturallv. I determined to examine into the mysterious ravine. Some time after this was walking with Pili down a gentle slope. when I saw a number of bones—a circular area of about a hundred yards in diameter, thickly covered with the bleached remains of birds, animals, and human beings. These ghastly relies were scattered among the shrubs and grass. In the centre of the circle was a well-like opening in the ground, from which emanated a sickening odour. No vegetation grew within fifty feet of this cavity. A deep mystery seemed to hang over the spot. It was growing dark, and hearing Pili call. I hurried to him. He pointed in terror to the centre of the bone-covered area. I saw rising from poverty of blood. Pains invaded all parts of my Limitways. the pit a visible vapour, a column of visible fog orsmoke orgas that was luminous. Near the ground it had the appearance of a phosphorescent flame, and gradually became fainter as it ascended. Pili pulled at my arm and in silence we left the spot. One evening I made known my intention to Pili to return to the place in the morning and to explore the gorge. Without a word the old native arose from his mat on the floor and departed. He was gone all night. He returned by sunrise, bearing on his shoulders a bundle. He unpacked a stone idol, curious in shape; he placed it on the ground and then took a small pig from his bundle. Making a fire, he sprinkled something in the flame, muttered strange sounds, and made symbols in the air with nervousness vanished altogether. I took about what he could to preserve my life. All this made me feel uncomfortable.

a liver disease, caused by indigestion and dysp-psis, contracted during his long and arduous military service in India. He is a man of excellent character, and is at present employed as gardener. He mentioned in conversation that after his recovery he met a lady who is bousekeeper at a gentleman's residence, who said to him, 'Why, Bankam, what has worked so marvellous an imployement in you?' Ho told her and as she suffered from rhoumatism and weakness, she took Seigel's Syrup, and

THE SACRIFICE OF LIFE. Thousands of lives are sacrificed annually because mankind are not educated in the first rudiments of hygiene and life-preservation, Simple ailments are neglected. The debility increases, and some fatal disease attacks the victim, and all life's pleasure departs, existence becomes a burden, life a trouble, and all because mankind is so apathetic and regardless of the signs nature sends that the vital strength is declining. All cases require immediate attention before it is too late, and a course of Cloments Tonic invariably has the effect of immediately restoring per feet health. Miss Eva Brown, daughter of Sergeant Brown, Albury, N.S.W., writes on June 15, 1891 :- 'The following particulars of my case are furnished on behalf of the afflicted, trusting they may be the means of restoring others to health: For eighteen mouths I was extremely debilitated, the doctors being of opinion that I had outgrown my strength. My body; I suffered from general lunguor, extreme werkness, listlessness, dejection of spirits, indigestion, fickle appetite and disturbed sleep. My body presented a bloodless appearance; my lips were pale and the skin like wax. I was under several doctors who prescribed for me; but their treatment did not alleviate my sickness. I imagived that my constitution was breaking up, and | as the disease progressed I became more nervous and hystorical. My sufferings were also greatly to my friends and myself, I started on a course Europe. of Clements Tonic, which I took in conjunction with Dr Fletcher's pills. The first two bottles effected a great improvement, and I could relish my food again, and my general weakness and his fingers. The animal offering was twelve bottles of Clements Tonic, and my pale placed before the idol. After he had face is now replaced with the hae of health, and completed his strange rites he said that I my recovery is as complete as it was speedy." might never come back; but he had done D. W. Carter, Esq., of the same city, also suffered from a general breakdown of the system, acately from indigestion and its train of distressing effects, most particularly sick headaches.
